4th Congress 2016

Engendering Citizenship in Asia

Dear Colleagues,

As globalization begins to challenge the meaning of the nation and therefore citizenship, marginalized groups within nations are therefore presented unique challenges and opportunities. Certainly there is a need to redefine citizenship as global structures of economic control emerge. Such struggles continue to be about global regimes of social protection and human rights, setting the stage for new concepts of global citizenship.

In line with this, the Asian Association of Women Studies (AAWS) wishes to invite researchers, advocates, students, policy makers, academicians, and administrators to explore this emergence of a national and global citizenship that fully integrates the rights of all to full social protection, welfare and self determination. The 4th AAWS Congress will be a 3-day event from 1-3 December 2016 at Thang Long University, Hanoi, Vietnam and will be attended by guest speakers and paper presenters especially from Asia to share the developments and best practices in line with the overarching theme: "Engendering Citizenship in Asia".

Additional sub-themes are included in the congress to thicken the discourse on issues such as Reproductive Health/ Abortion, Female Migration, Victims of War, Theorizing Women in the 21st century or in development contexts, Trafficking, Linking the global and the domestic in struggles against gender based violence, Gender Division of Labor, Globalization, Rethinking Sustainable Development from Women's Perspective, Sexual citizenship Asian citizenship, and Global citizenship, and Feminist Activism.

Registration fee for the congress is at 100 USD with payment and registration instructions available at <http://congress2016.aaws2013.org/>. The registration fee is inclusive of congress kits, meals during the congress and entry to all sessions and presentations.
